Old Time Fiddler's Contest Held At Cereal

The Old Time Fiddlers Contest and dance which followed, was one of the outstanding successes so far this season. There were nine contestants in the fiddling contest, which resulted as follows — L. D. Butts of Chinook received First Prize; Oscar Olsen of Cereal, Second and James Ironside also of Cereal Third. The music of all of these Old Time Fiddlers was very good indeed, and the audience was treated to a fine exhibition of No. 1 music that was popular in the days when these Old Time Fiddlers were in their prime.

Wedding

MARR-BARROS

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents at Bindloss, when Miss Florence Annette, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barros, was united in marriage to gunner Albert Marr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Marr, of Chinook Alberta.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Peck, of Empress, in the presence of relatives. The bride who was given by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white sheer with shoulder length veil, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses. She was attended by her sister Mrs. Harvey Bangs, as matron of honor, who wore a long gown of blue sheer and a corsage of yellow carnations.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Lester Marr.

The mother of the bride chose a light blue crepe gown, and wore a corsage of pink carnations, while the groom's mother wore a navy blue crepe costume with pink carnations.

After the ceremony a reception was held, with Rev. Peck proposing the toast to the bride, and immediately following, the happy couple left for Vancouver, where the groom is stationed.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES— Including Farmers

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possesses documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944 (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);
2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee now working for him, whose documents he has not checked before, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division at once on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
4. Any male employee here referred to, is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;
5. FOR THIS PURPOSE "EMPLOYER" INCLUDES ALSO ANY FARMER OPERATING A FARM, WHO HAS A MALE PERSON WORKING FOR HIM;
6. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada, including farmers, co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st, last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9, for reporting to the Registrar, and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Farmers not needed on the farm during the winter, who answer the urgent call for winter workers in other essential industries, will be given a continuance of postponement of military training while away from the farm.

THE fight against V.D. is a family affair . . .

A laughing couple, dodging showers of rice . . . fireside . . . garden . . . chubby babies . . .

These are scenes we know and like, because they're part of our lives . . . because they spell happiness . . . contentment.

But we know that these things don't "just happen." They have to be worked for, lived for. Protected, too, because of ever-present dangers which may spoil them.

Venerable Disease is a spoiler. In a cold, relentless way it can kill infants, rob the home of its breadwinner, cripple, destroy. These are not mere possibilities. THEY HAPPEN . . . (RIGHT HERE IN CANADA!)

But, these things should never happen. They can be prevented.

Young men and women can safeguard their future happiness together by making sure before marriage that V.D. will not blight their plans. A medical examination, including a blood test for syphilis, is a protection no couple can afford to pass up.

The expectant mother, too, may know for sure that her baby will be all she dreamed of. Syphilis in the expectant mother rarely shows outward signs, and it is no respecter of persons. An early check-up by her doctor, including a blood test, is a most essential, yet simple, first step in protecting her baby's health.

Nor must the breadwinner neglect his part. The security of the home depends upon his ability to work regularly and efficiently. Unsuspected syphilis, striking in middle life, may make the head of the home unable to provide for his family. It is wise to "NOW FOR SURE" in time. Industrial medical examinations should include a routine confidential blood test.

A blood test should not be looked upon as something unusual. It should be regarded for what it is . . . a normal safeguard of health, security and happiness.

Post-War Army

Will Have Plenty Of The Best Equipment To Draw From

The Reserve Army is expected to get encouragement after this war in place of the seemingly grudging support it got after the First Great War.

One thing is sure: The Army will have plenty of the best equipment to draw from and there is every likelihood that the wide range of weapons from tanks and landing barges to Commando daggers and Sten guns will be used in peacetime training camps after the war.

The question as to whether the veterans will join the Reserve has already been answered in many cities where discharged men have found themselves irresistibly drawn back to the parade ground and the comradeship of arms.

One officer said recently: "When they quit the Army they all say it's the last time they want to see a uniform."

"I know, because I said the same thing after the last war. But in about six months' time, they start coming around the armories, and the first thing you know they've got on sergeant's stripes and are bawling out commands." —Toronto Globe and Mail.

SURPLUS WAR SUPPLIES

William G. Lehman of the United States Office of Surplus War Property said 25,000 pairs of officers' spurs and several hundred thousand cartridge clips had been sold to radio advertisers, presumably for souvenir distribution; smudge pots have gone to citrus growers, 4,700 Klaxon horns to boat builders, and 1,200,000 cuspidors with lids removed for use as stew pots.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Maharaja

—By—
MORT MADOFF

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Louise, scanning the society page of the morning paper, gasped audibly. Her voice became tense with excitement. "It's true! The Van Worthingtons have that handsome maharaja as their guest. Oh, Herbert, I'd give my right arm to be introduced to him!"

Herbert reluctantly withdrew his eyes from the sports page. "Aw, Louise, an Indian prince is human like the rest of us common folks."

His wife glared. "Common folks! That describes us perfectly, Herbert Bummel. We'll never... we'll never be anything else."

Herbert swallowed his coffee in one gulp. "And what have you to complain about, Mrs. Louise Clinker Bummel?"

Louise stared critically at her husband. There really wasn't much to censure. Herbert was a good husband, a dependable plumber who always made a decent living and never caused any trouble. But he was as romantic as Mulligan's stew.

Herbert set down his coffee cup, smacked his lips, picked up his cap, planted a methodical kiss upon Louise's brow, and bounded off to do his little tinkering.

Louise sighed as she began to wash the breakfast dishes. The patter of the faucet became a majestic waterfall. India. Rubies and diamonds. Harms. Curious mystics who stare at the sun and scamper over hot coals. Voluptuous dancing girls. Handsome princes on white elephants. Turbans and the river Ganges. India—romance.

Even while preparing supper Louise couldn't forget the maharaja. If only Herbert would mix with the more socially prominent businessmen. But Herbert was Herbert, and there was no changing him.

At supper Herbert grinned broadly. "Joe Peters sure messed up that Van Worthington job."

Louise felt prickly. "Van Worthington?"

Herbert paused a moment as he swallowed a mouthful of mashed potatoes. "Yeah. They needed some special plumbing in that fifty-foot mausoleum they call a bathroom. Insisted on a hurry-up job as they wanted it for this Indian individual. I couldn't guarantee to do it fast enough for them, so they gave it to Joe."

Louise blanched. "Herbert! If you had taken that job maybe we'd have been invited to that costume party. And I want so much to go. Here eyes moistened and her heart ached.

Herbert patted her hand. "I'm sorry, Louise, but even a plumber has ethics."

Louise sniffed. "The party is Thursday afternoon. All I'd want would be one look at that charming maharaja."

Herbert wrinkled up his nose. "It's beyond me what you women see in that Indian. Anyway, pass the meat balls, eh, Louise?"

Thursday dawned bright and cheerful. But there was no sunshine for Louise. Beside her, Herbert was wheezing away for all he was worth. He was dead to the world, dreaming about money wrenches and lead castings.

At breakfast Herbert had a disgustingly good appetite. It meant nothing to him that he wasn't invited to the Van Worthington costume party. He hummed happily as he buttered his toast. Louise looked imploringly at him. "Please, Herbert, you don't have to put on an act for me."

Herbert stared wide-eyed. "This is no act. I'm expecting one of my biggest and most important jobs today."

Louise sighed heavily. "Is that all you ever think of—jobs and more jobs?"

Herbert munched contentedly. "It's our bread and butter, Louise. Our bread and butter."

At ten o'clock Louise met the mailman at the door. The Van Worthingtons would send her an invitation. She just knew it. But the tone envelope contained an announcement heralding the opening of Gittelman's Haberdashery.

Twelve o'clock came and went. At three, Louise was frantically waiting for a liveried messenger to come dashing up on the porch. Threethirty the party would begin. Louise could almost hear the gay strangled music, the murmur of the guests as they awaited the maharaja, and then the hush as he made his regal entrance.

The jingling of the phone brought her back to reality. She blinked twice as she heard the briskness of Herbert's voice. "How'd you like to see the Indian fellow, Louise?"

Louise trembled all over. "Oh, Herbert, how did you manage it? But hurry, darling, the party has started."

Herbert was provokingly calm. "Don't worry, the shindig won't be gin until we get there."

As she imagined the glittering dress of the other guests, Louise wailed, "But what shall I wear?"

"Better put on a pair of my overalls. And boots. But hurry!"

Louise few upstairs and encased herself in Herbert's work clothes. Herbert was clever sometimes. Who would ever think of going to a society costume party in a plumber's outfit? They sped up the hill in the business truck. Louise wouldn't have cared if it had been a junk wagon. She, Louise Bummel, was going to the exclusive Van Worthington costume party. And she happily squeezed Herbert's arm.

An obsequious doorman hurried them inside. The guests stood aside respectfully as the Bummels made their way up the marble stairway. Louise tugged at Herbert's elbow. "Isn't the party being held downstairs?"

Herbert chuckled. "Party? You maharaja is marooned in that fancy bathroom, and I'm the fellow who's going to rescue him and fix the busted pipes."

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA

presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

NUTRITION IMPORTANT SCIENCE

If all persons were rational nutritional education would be very simple. They would learn promptly and would act wisely after observing the ill effects of deficient diets and the benefits to health and development brought about by the eating of the right kinds of foods.

But in this respect people have not always behaved as rational beings. Many have read and are reading about deficiency diseases and the rewards in health and welfare that fall to those who eat balanced meals. But they cannot be bothered to make the effort to break away from their old habits.

Some know the kinds of foods that the diet should contain and yet they deliberately persist for years in eating what they prefer rather than selecting the nutritious foods they need and finally end up with undermined health.

However, the entire human race is not irrational and stubborn in its food habits and many have learned and are learning by experience and education to change their food habits.

Even though most persons show strong resistance to new ideas, many have learned much about nutrition—proper eating habits—in recent years.

For instance, numerous housewives now know the meaning of food groups. They have learned that starches, fats and proteins are important constituents of daily diets and know how to use them in cooking. They are well-informed about vitamins, what foods contain certain vitamins and other substances essential to the health of their children.

Also, they know there has been a revolution in kitchen practices. They have learned that fruits and vegetables should not be treated as relishes but as important components of the daily diet. They are conscious of the fact that milk is not merely baby food but should be included in everyone's diet.

It took scientists many years to discover and verify these simple facts and gradually the world at large is absorbing this New Science which, if allowed full sway by all humans and their economies, would revolutionize a very big part of the art of living.

Finland's Indemnity

Russia Is Likely To Accept Wood And Wood Products

Finland, fighting to rid itself of German troops, is also moving quietly to meet the $300,000,000 reparations which it must pay the Soviets under the armistice. The burden will probably be carried largely by certain industries, part of whose production will be allocated to Russia. Since Finland once exported large amounts of wood and wood products to Russia, these materials are likely to constitute a major item under the proposed program. Many forests are nationally owned and private interests would not have to be reimbursed.—Newsweek.

Tribute To Lord Halifax

U.S. Newspaper Man Has High Praise For British Ambassador

Luther Huston, Washington correspondent of the New York Times pays high tribute to Lord Halifax, the British Ambassador to the United States. In a recent article, he writes: "This tall, rather sombre man who has been the British Ambassador since January, 1941, has demonstrated to thousands of Americans that there is a common meeting ground, and, in doing so, has acquired a wider knowledge, perhaps of Americans as individuals than any other Britisher of his time." He works hard at his job and has travelled very widely in the United States, but no matter where he is, Lord Halifax cannot be very far away from the lines that command with Whitehall and Downing street. He does not know the border when a dispatch may come that requires immediate and earnest attention. There flows across his desk and from it to the comprehensive and complex Embassy organization which deals with all phases of British interests in the United States a vast amount of documentary work. By nature and long training, he works quickly and easily, makes his decisions, and gives his instructions without hesitation. Had he not that faculty his work never would be done. His name is Edward Frederick Lindley Wood and he was the third Viscount Halifax until recently, when the King's honors list made him the Earl of Halifax. "He is as British as Yorkshire pudding or Devonshire cream, yet but for the place and circumstances of birth he might have been Professor Wood of some New England college or Ed. Wood from the Kentucky hills. He is a man who would do all right in either of those environments, and does right well where he is."

Control Shipping

Arrangement Between Britain And United States Until War Ends

U.S. and Britain have been co-operating during the war in controlling shipping. The British Ministry of War Transport and the War Shipping Administration of the U.S. have had, under requisition or charter, operating control of almost all the ships in the world—except the enemy ones. This arrangement terminates on suspension of hostilities with Germany. After which the U.S. and Britain have agreed to set up a new authority—with Norway and the Netherlands, which is to control the majority of world shipping until six months after the end of the wars with Germany and Japan.

ASK FOR "MIRACLE" FEEDS

By
DR. E. W. NEATBY
Director
Liaison Elevator Farm Service
Winnipeg, Manitoba

Farm Boys at High School

Most farm boys know, roughly, what is involved in the practice of medicine, dentistry, engineering or law; but they often have very little knowledge of the fascinating studies connected with scientific agriculture. The various tasks of professional agriculture require just as much ability and training as do those of other professions. They are varied, and require the services of agricultural engineers, economists, chemists, plant pathologists, entomologists, etc., as well as an army of men with broad training for agricultural representative, teaching and extension work.

At present, a large proportion of the students in our agricultural colleges are city boys with little or no farm experience. It is true that most of our colleges require a certain minimum of farm experience, but a city student can usually meet such requirements without learning a great deal about farming. This state of affairs is viewed with alarm by most professional agriculturists, including college professors. An intimate knowledge of general farm practices and problems is an advantage in all branches of the profession and an absolute necessity in many.

There will probably be a serious shortage of well trained agriculturists for some time to come. Farm boys doing well at high school, and keen on entering professional service of one kind or another, should examine the possibilities in agriculture.

Ask your line Elevator agent for a booklet dealing more fully with this subject.
